

The Neurosequential Model in Education[®] Implementation Training Program

“From Information to Practice and Application”

A partnership between the

and

A program for NME Trainers and Advanced NME Trainers ready to bring advanced implementation and data tracking elements to schools and youth serving organizations to improve sustainability of the NME.

Participants will receive:

- 2 years of training, coaching and support around how to implement the NME in schools and youth-serving organizations
- NME Advanced Implementation Consultation Series with Dr. Bruce Perry
- Professional development training guide - scope and sequence and materials - to bring the NME to the full staff of their schools/organizations
- Training specific slide decks, implementation and application materials and tools
- Evaluation support paired with data collection and analysis tools
- Connection to and collaboration with a learning and support cohort

Training will be concurrent with implementation.

“The ongoing capacity-building, supervision, consultation and on-the-ground supports that this program provide protect, preserve and expand the benefits from the initial investments in the NME.”

Bruce D. Perry, M.D., Ph.D.

Information Sessions to be Announced Soon

For information please contact:

director@educationalaccessgroup.org